

The market yesterday held firm and there was considerable trading. There were no individual features during the day and the closing demonstrated a fine undertone. Last night's prices on the Goldfield exchange closed with about the same figures as the San Francisco closing.

ARE STILL MINING ALMOST PURE GOLD

The Shaffer-Channing lease on the Mint is still in the dollars per pound" ore in the south drift and stope. The size of the vein in the south is getting bigger and now breaks free from the walls of quartz in the three-foot vein that makes the stripping of the high grade an easy matter. The company is now raising three sacks of better than $1700 per sack daily, and shipments to the mill of the middlings and screenings give settlements of $411 per ton, which is the making of dividends. The management, which is Shaffer and Channing, will begin their daily shipments of all classes of their product soon as the hoist is installed. The big plant has been in the ditch near Sand springs for almost a week, caused by the breaking down of the freighting outfit. The bullion that is being melted in bars is still going to the mint at San Francisco at the rate of two per week. This alone is putting money in the treasury at the rate of about $4500. The wreck that has delayed the installation of the hoisting plant has set all plans awry, but with its arrival their will be such mining on this estate as has never before been equalled for speed in development and for the shipping of high grade ore and big settlements.—Rawhide Rustler.

EFFINGER PLEASED WITH BLAIR MINES

Part of this time there was only a portion of the mill in commission and the production at the start was small. Now the entire plant has been rounded into shape, and the average output each month is $105,000 gross and $75,000 net. The mill has a capacity of only 450 tons daily, yet it is capable of showing a net earning of 25 per cent on its capitalization of $3,000,000. Up to the present time, though the reduction plant has been in commission less than six months, there has been accumulated profits of $200,000, and should the directors see fit they they can begin the payment of dividends this fall. It is possible that the owners may decide to build up a large surplus before the dividends are started.

A few years ago Martin L. Efinger was engaged in the mining business in Utah, and had the backing of some Michigan people. One of these capitalists failed, and by reason of this the Efinger properties were involved in some extent in the settlement of the Detroit estate. Efinger began to cast about for a new opening in the mining field, and after looking a number of new camps of Nevada over, such as Goldfield, Tonopah and others, he hit upon the trial of these Silver Peak properties.

Gathering around himself a number of Pittsburgh and Salt Lake capitalists, including Frank Knox, he began opening up the property and in some of the old workings he found the yellow metal in such quantities that he immediately reported to his associates the advisability of constructing a reduction plant for the treatment of the rock at the mine and thus save the expense of transportation to a custom plant.

That the mill has been a success in every particular is ascribed to the splendid record just made, and it is said that the largest interests may consider the advisability of increasing the capacity within another year. The ore reserves in the mine have been blocked out several years in advance, and some of the engineers who have inspected the workings are of the

JORDAN LEASE A REGULAR SHIPPER

Superintendent Robbe of the Jordan lease on the Queen Mascot reports the shaft down to the 110 foot mark and for thirty-nine feet above the bottom of the Kearns vein is in the hole. This vein for this distance pans values and gives values in the assay that show that there is an immense amount of milling ore—enough in sight in the shaft to make the dividends forthcoming without the four figure high grade that was left in the drifts at the forty-four foot point. A station will be cut at the 120 and then the management will start for the richness of the Kearns vein as well as to drive to the extraordinary rich silver-gold ore that is in sight and in place above. The latter is expected to be reached at about thirty feet from the bottom of the hole and the Kearns richness they expect to cut at any distance from the bottom. A shipment of thirty tons of the rich silver rock is now being prepared to be sent to the Hazen sampler on Tuesday next. Careful sampling by three assayers give a result of over $900 per ton for the shipment. Superintendent Robbe says that as soon as the hoist is installed he will require a greatly increased working staff, and that he will rush his work to the depths where he has every confidence of opening a bonanza, and one that will not take second place to any property in the camp. Robbe says: "We are now preparing the third shipment to the mill and I have every reason to believe that we will soon be able to make daily shipments from the property."—Rawhide Rustler.

A FAMILIAR SIGN.

"Don't sell that man another drink," ordered the boss.

"He's all right," argued the barkeep. "He ain't full."

"No; but he's beginning to tell what a nice family he comes of."— opinion that the gold will be produced in profitable amounts for many years to come. It is described as one of the greatest low grade gold producing properties in the sagebrush state, and a great deal of the business resulting from the development of this property comes to this city.
